AMUSEMENTS.

The advance sale indicates a big business for Crane's new play, "A Fool of Fortune," at English's the last half of the week.

The last two performances of Gus Hill's Novelties take place this afternoon and evening at the Grand. There was no falling off in the attendance at night, the theater being crowded. It is an excellent vaudeville performance, bright throughout and devoid of coarseness. To-morrow afternoon Jerome's Comedians open a three days' engagement. The program is bright and has only four more days to stay here.

"Zero," which is being presented at the Empire this week, is one of the most elaborate spectacular productions ever put on at that house. There will be a wrestling tournament at the Empire the first three nights of next week. Hale and Monroe will appear Monday night. Woodman's and Tricker Tuesday evening and the winners of the two matches on Wednesday evening.

Says the Libretto Was Filched.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—The London papers containing criticism of the new comic opera, "His Majesty," have been received here, and Peter Robertson, of this city, declares that the authors have made use of the product of his genius. Mr. Robertson, an English musician, has written a comic opera which was called "His Majesty." The libretto was published and sold both here and in London. It was copyrighted. Mr. Robertson declares that the London authors, who have produced not only borrowed the title of his work, but also made use of several scenes and original situations.

CITY NEWS NOTES.

Q. E. D.
"Tredde's an awful fool, ain't he?"
"He is in love, you know."
"What has that got to do with his being a fool?"
"Don't you know the definition of love?"
"Two souls in one, but a single thought."

Originality.
Washington Star.
"So," said the composer, indignantly, "that writer has the impudence to say that my music is original?"
"That's what has happened," the manager replied.
"You may tell him for me that my music is quite as original as his criticism."

People buy Hood's Sarsaparilla year after year because it does them good. It will do you good to take it now.

A TRUNK OF DIAMONDS

BROUGHT UP BY DIVERS FOR BODIES

IN THE HAZLETON WRECK.

Sixty-Five Feet of Water at the Wash-out in the E. & T. H. and a Bridge Will Have to Be Erected.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
PRINCETON, Ind., March 23.—Large crowds have gathered at the scene of the Hazleton washout, hoping to see some of the bodies recovered from the wreckage of the divers, who arrived to search the submerged cars, came to the surface with a trunk, taken from the baggage car. On examination the trunk proved to be the property of Milwaukee people, who claimed they had lost $30,000 worth of diamonds and other valuables.

The Evansville & Terre Haute Railway Company has given up the attempt to close the Hazleton washout. A white river, near Decker, where five people lost their lives in the recent accident. The water in the crevasse is sixty-five feet deep and it is thought that White river has changed its course. A bridge will be constructed over the place. Professional divers are now engaged in searching for the dead bodies and locating suitable places for the piers for the new bridge.

DEFORMED FROM BIRTH

THE AFFLICTION FROM WHICH GERMAN'S WAR LORD SUFFERS.

Besides a Withered Arm, the Kaiser Has an Affection of the Ear Which Is a Constant Torture.

New York World.
Is the Emperor of Germany insane?
It is alleged in the latest news from Berlin that the Emperor's demeanor, hitherto calm and dignified, has become eccentric, and has presented itself in the new and more definite phase of fits of mental aberration. "Not distinguishable from madness."

This is only an indefinite way of saying that he is insane, since if an aberration cannot be distinguished from madness it is madness. It is not so easy to draw the line between the two. He is only a subordinate, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind. It is not so easy to draw the line between the two. He is only a subordinate, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind.

Extravagance has been the keynote of the Emperor's life from the first ever heard of him by the world outside his nursery, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind. It is not so easy to draw the line between the two. He is only a subordinate, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind.

He has roared his hoarse phrases to his army and his court, and his eccentric names as Julius Caesar or Alexander the Great. At all times he is the same. He is only a subordinate, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind.

But if one who is really a king and great and rich and powerful has the same sort of disease it is not so easy to draw the line between the two. He is only a subordinate, and every phase of his career since has indicated a mental abnormality of the kind.

The Indianapolis Journal.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal:

Truth is often stranger than fiction.

The four-column account of the Pearl Bryan murder in last Friday's Journal, written with wonderful skill, puts Zola to shame and is full of the most thrilling and dramatic incidents. At last here is a story that has the material for a very great romance of drama, and only need an artist to work out a masterpiece of tragedy. And the wonder of it is that the closer the artist or writer will stick to the facts the more interesting the play or novel will be. Leaving out the imaginary, look for one moment at the wealth of material in the proven facts of the great crime of Pearl Bryan tragedy. To start on, the name of Pearl is almost a stroke of genius. It is very seldom that a girl has so sweet a name, borrowed from Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." Then the surroundings and early history of this girl, the sleepy college town, her country home, her graduation at the East, no one suspecting his record or real character
